

How can I manage voice-messaging expenses while maintaining high-quality services for my customers?

BellSouth® Industrial Voicemail Service provides an unbranded offering that allows you to meet your customers' needs.

At a Glance

- No capital investment
- Easy order and termination
- Increase wireless usage
- Leading technology and support

Enhance Your Business

You need to provide your wireless customers with additional vertical services, but don't need the extra investment in capital. BellSouth Industrial Voicemail service provides an unbranded wholesale voicemail offering to help you meet your wireless customers' needs – and at a lower cost to you.

Give your customers what they want: quality voice messaging service with BellSouth Industrial Voicemail. An incoming call is always answered, whether a subscriber is on the phone or simply unavailable. Users can create personal greetings and retrieve messages from any tone-capable telephone.

Concentrate on Your Core Competencies

You don't need to be a voice-messaging expert – that's our role. Implementing and managing your own wireless telephone answering and message recording service can be time consuming and expensive. Let BellSouth manage and support your messaging needs so you can focus on the important things, like growing your business. Available throughout the entire BellSouth region, Industrial Voicemail service eliminates headaches and provides faster, more efficient service for your end-users while being more cost effective for you./

No one wants large capital investment with slow returns.

We've built a state-of-the-art messaging platform so you don't have to. With BellSouth Industrial Voicemail service, there's no investment required – simply pay for what you use on a per mailbox basis. If you have a messaging network already, Industrial Voicemail service is right for you, too. Our standard feature set with message waiting indicator integrates neatly into your existing network, allowing you to avoid additional capital investment as you grow.

Deliver the right message

There are a lot of messaging options, but only BellSouth has the technology, reliability and experience you expect – and getting started is easy. We offer a direct interface into our messaging provisioning system to allow mailbox set-up to be fast and controlled by you. Choose BellSouth Industrial Voicemail service and ensure your customers get the voice mail services they want and need, while saving you time and money.

For more information regarding BellSouth® Industrial Voicemail Service, contact your BellSouth Interconnection Services account representative.

All trademarks contained herein are the property of BellSouth Intellectual Property Corporation.

©2003 BellSouth Corporation.
03/03 012383